CityPASS, the company that specializes in packaging discounted admission to the most iconic attractions in 12 North American destinations, recently announced the debut of New York C3®, a mobile pass concept that allows a more customized approach to vacation planning.

CityPASS booklets typically contain a set number of attraction admission tickets that visitors can use over a period of nine consecutive days (14 days for Southern California CityPASS admission cards). The New York C3 mobile pass puts a slightly different spin on this popular concept. It allows users to select any three attractions from a curated list of 10 must-see New York City sights :

- The Empire State Building Experience
- Top of the Rock Observation Deck
- American Museum of Natural History
- 9/11 Memorial & Museum
- Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island
- The Metropolitan Museum of Art
- Circle Line Sightseeing Cruises
- Intrepid Sea, Air & Space Museum
- Guggenheim Museum
- Hornblower Sightseeing Cruises

Unlike the original New York CityPASS ticket booklet, New York C3 isn't a booklet at all. Available for purchase only through citypass.com, it's a mobile pass that travelers carry on their smartphones. (Those without smartphones can opt to print out a voucher containing the barcode for their C3 purchase.)

For nearly 20 years, CityPASS ticket booklets and admission cards have been premier products for travelers who want to visit a destination's top attractions while enjoying significant savings. Each pass is valid for nine consecutive days, starting with the first day of use.
